

Edd, Sandra and Lukas want you to come and visit!

We will either have space for you in a guest room, or can suggest suitable local places to stay.

Dear friends...

A lot of you were asking where exactly we would be moving to.

I found out.

It's 52°46'47.69"N, 11°54'43.34"E.

Seriously, if you'd like to come and visit Sandra, Lukas and myself in Iden, Germany, you might need to know how to get there.

Here are three of the most obvious options.

1. By Train:

Eurostar to Brussels or Paris. Dinner. Night train to Berlin, Breakfast. Change, 1 hour by train to Stendal, and we will collect you. Very relaxing, around 14 hours, from £160 return. See www.seat61.com for details.

Definitely the most civilised way to complete the journey.

2. By Plane:

If you can cope with the carbon footprint and being treated like cattle, flights to the Hamburg or Berlin region will do. All the usual suspects fly there, after a bit of fiddling you can get by train to either Stendal or Wittenberge, and we will collect you. Budget £100 return for all associated costs and allow 6 hours (of airport rage). Alternately, rent a car from the airport.

3. By Car:

Euro Tunnel or a boat to the Continent and check your map. Plenty of parking chez nous.
